Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., August 4.--There was no lack of spirit in the convention today. Men fought hard for their favorites, but the majority had determined not only to get good men but to distribute them fairly, and so it has happened that some good men were left to fight with the thousands in the ranks. Hall, of Kanawha, could have had the treasurership, because it was felt that his county was entitled to recognition, as he had developed great strength in the contest for auditor, but he declined it. Kanawha could have had it for any good man the Kanawhas had centered on, but though a man was named from that county he had not the support of his delegation, and this was fatal to him. The treasurership contest was entirely a Third district affair and a first rate man, Payne, will go actively into the campaign and be heard from on the line of a fair distribution. The Fourth district took with comparative ease the attorney generalship, a capable young man who stands high as a lawyer. Bullock received a telegram from home saying that he would get 300 Democratic votes in Wood county.

By common consent the nominee for superintendent of schools is the best equipped man in West Virginia for the place. He deserves every word that was said for him in the convention. Democratic school men are rejoiced, and he will get strong support among them. The nominees for supreme court are excellent men and will do the party credit. The more the ticket is talked over the better it is liked. The convention is particularly well pleased with itself, because the tickets is its own work. More than once it looked as though everybody was at sea for lack of direction. This was because there was no assertion of leadership to try to force anything or anybody on the convention. Some Democrats present noticed that the men regarded as leaders were sitting quietly looking on congratulated each other on the assurance of a badly constructed ticket. A Democrat said to me this evening that he had never seen a body of men work out to better conclusions. "You have made a ticket of business men and young men, and you are going to give us trouble."

I endorse the sentiment. It will be a troublesome ticket for the West Virginia Democrats. It is brand new all through and it is strong in whole and in part. Mr. Davis will try to get to every county in the state, and as he goes about, it will be seen that he is a full sized man. He has telegrams from Taylor and adjoining counties assuring him of the biggest Republican vote ever polled in that region. He leaves tomorrow morning for Parkersburg to be present there to-morrow night at a big ratification meeting.

Captain Devener and some others of note will be there. Mr. Elkins would have been there, but a telegram from Washington took him off on the afternoon train. Delegates have left for home in all directions. The Pan-Handle crowd got away at 4 o'clock. Others will go up in the morning. Huntington has done remarkably well by the unexpected crowd. The Florentine, the general headquarters, has fed 1,200 people a day for two days, and slept a regiment. Landlord Dupue has accomplished wonders under the circumstances, and the ordinary rates have not been raised on anybody. Everybody leaves well pleased and favorably impressed with the pushing young city.

AT DAVIS' HOME.

The Enthusiasm His Nomination Created at Grafton--A Sure Winner.

Grafton, W. VA., August 4.--The town of Grafton and the county of Taylor send greeting to the Huntington convention and gratefully acknowledge the high and deserved tribute paid their distinguished citizen, the Hon. Thomas E. Davis, in his nomination for the governorship of West Virginia. The citizens of this community appreciate the great honor that has been conferred upon them in the selection of Senator Davis as the standard bearer of the Republican party in its determined battle for supremacy in the state of West Virginia during the coming campaign, and Taylor county pledges itself to give a Republican majority next fall unparalleled in the brilliant records of its past history. When Mr. Davis made his campaign for the state senate the Tenth senatorial district gave him a majority far exceeding that of any candidate who was ever elected to the legislature from this district; and the hearty, enthusiastic endorsement that he received from his faithful constituents for his zeal, faithfulness and conspicuous service as their representative in that legislature is a pledge of the earnest, ardent support he will have from those who live near him and know him best in his campaign for the highest office within the gift of the people of the state.

From expressions heard on all sides Republicans everywhere in this section accept the nomination of Senator Davis with cordial satisfaction and with the utmost confidence in the successful outcome of his campaign, and even no Democrat here can be found who will utter a syllable against his acknowledged high character, his superb business qualities and his fitness for the high office for which he has been named by his party.

Here are a few samples of remarks about the nomination heard around the town: "Hurrah for Grafton and its next governor!" "It's the best nomination that could have been made, and is an assurance of victory for the Republican party."

Another one said: "Davis will get many a Democratic vote in this part of the state. He is very popular." Here is a little knot of select Republicans discussing the nomination, and this is what they say: "This will be the greatest campaign in the history of West Virginia, and we will win with Davis." "No one can utter a word against him, he has no enemies, and he will make a strong, representative candidate for all classes of voters." Another enthusiastic Republican chimes in with: "I am glad Elkins was not nominated. He will throw the combined weight of all his influence to the support of the ticket, and he can do the party more good in that way than if he were personally its candidate."

And thus from all sides the Republicans in this section ratify the nomination and express implicit faith in the candidacy of their honored fellow-citizen. Even our Democratic brethren here feel a local pride in the nomination.

One of the "workers" from Barbour's Democracy, who was here when the news of the nomination came in, said: "Well, that settles Barbour's vote for the governor of West Virginia. It will go Republican this time sure. Davis is very popular in our county. He is intimately associated in large business interests with some of our leading Democrats, and they will all vote for him. The narrow Democratic majority we have now will be wiped out after the election."

NEBRASKA REPUBLICANS.

They Have a Warm Time--Adjourn Without Nominating a Ticket to-day.

LINCOLN, Neb., August 4.--After the most bitter struggle ever known in a Nebraska Republican convention, the state convention adjourned at 7 o'clock this evening without having made a nomination. The delegates will reconvene at 9:30 to-morrow morning and the fight will be renewed. The great contest came on at 3:30, when the balloting for governor began.

The nominees were: Lorenzo Crounse, assistant secretary of the treasury; ex-Congressman Thomas Majors, Lawson Sheldon, A. E. Caddy, Jack McCall and Judge Reese. The fourth and last ballot resulted: Crounse, 395; Majors, 317; Sheldon, 33; Caddy, 60; McCall, 40; Reese, 2. The platform was read and adopted. The labor plank reads thus: "The Republican party is the friend of labor in the factory, mill, mine or on the farm. It will at all times stand ready to adopt any measure that may improve its condition or promote its prosperity." We deplore the occurrence of any conflict between capital and labor. We denounce the agitation of demagogues designed to foment conflicts, and we most earnestly disapprove the use of private armed forces in any trouble between them. We favor the establishment of some form of boards or tribunals of conciliation and arbitration for the peaceful settlement of all disputes between capital and labor.

TROUBLE AT DUQUESNE.

A Regiment Called Out to Aid the Deputy Sheriff.

MILL OFFICIALS ARE ATTACKED

By the Strikers--A Deadly Conflict Averted by the Timely Arrival of Military--The Mill Will Resume on Monday--The Strikers Admit That Their Fight in This Mill is Now Lost.

HOMESTEAD, PA., August 4.--The moral suasion of clubs and stones was adopted by a few desperate strikers to prevent or delay a stampede at Duquesne to-day. As a result several persons were beaten, and the militia is in charge of the steel works there. Yesterday it became evident that a break was imminent. A large number of the strikers had become convinced that the fight was lost, and went to the mill office, where they inscribed their names in the application book.

There were a number of departments out of order by reason of the sudden shut down, and Superintendent Morrison ordered William Mileslagel, foreman of the mechanical departments, to report with thirty men in the morning for work. Notice was given in the night and this spread until about sixty men, who had led the strike, hearing of it, determined to stop the work. Twenty Homestead men started for Duquesne also about daylight to assist the ringleaders in preventing any persons entering the works. They were in charge of two brothers named Harris. It is claimed, who are not naturalized citizens, having only left England six months ago.

About six o'clock twelve deputy sheriffs in charge of Capt. Gray were stationed at the mill gate, and a crowd began to gather. By seven o'clock it numbered 300. About this time members of the mechanical department in obedience to the order of Foreman Mileslagel arrived with lunch pails. They were halted by the crowd which was armed with clubs and boulders. Every man was ordered home with such threatening demonstrations that the majority fled in terror.

Foreman Mileslagel appeared at 9 o'clock and was about to enter the works when a number of men ordered him to leave. "I won't go, your conduct is disgraceful," he exclaimed. "Either you will leave at once or we shall kill you," somebody in the crowd yelled.

At the same time a hundred strikers arrayed themselves in front of the man. Seeing resistance useless, Mileslagel turned and started home by a road skirting a ravine. Three men, one of whom is supposed to be a Homesteader, followed cursing him, and he hurried back a defiance. Immediately one man struck at him with a club, which Mileslagel dodged, as he did a rock, which was hurled by the second. The third man, however, ran up and struck the foreman in the back of the neck, knocking him over the embankment. He rolled a distance of twenty feet and received painful bruises. He was allowed to arise and proceed unmolested. A few moments later Hugh Boyce, the boss carpenter, arrived. He managed to slip through the crowd unobserved until within ten feet of the mill gate. Then he was discovered and a savage rush was made for him. The deputies made a sortie and several used their maces. Boyce reached the gate unharmed, and finally got safely inside.

The felled strikers immediately proposed storming the works. Then a telegram was hastily dispatched by Capt. Gray to Brigadier General Wiley, commanding the battalion of the second brigade, stationed at Homestead. He sent the Sixteenth Regiment to the scene of disorder on a special train. It arrived just in time to prevent the mill gate being stormed. The regiment reached the mill road without having to use a single bayonet. It marched up company front and instinctively the 300 strikers fell back before it. Details were then stationed at the gate, railroad stations and throughout the town. The strikers congregated along the hillside and further violence was ended. None of the repairmen were to go to work in the afternoon as they were too frightened. The company expects them to report in the morning. Colonel Hulings commanding the Sixteenth regiment telegraphed General Wiley in the evening that he was confident two companies would be sufficient to assist the deputy sheriffs in preserving order. The companies will likely remain at Duquesne several days.

Treasurer H. M. Curry, of the Carnegie Steel Company, who was at Duquesne, stated to the Associated Press representative that 510 of the old employees had asked to return to work and would be taken back on Monday.

In Homestead it is generally conceded that as far as Duquesne is concerned the strike is lost. There was little change in the Homestead fight this evening. Manager Potter said that on Monday the Bessemer converting mill would be started and then all departments would be partially in operation.

During the past two days the advisory committee has been plastering the works with notices to the non-union men that the stories of violence are untrue, and that if they desire to get away they will not be molested by the strikers.

STAMPEDE AT DUQUESNE.

Men Rushing Back to Work--Confirmed by an Amalgamated Workman.

PITTSBURGH, PA., August 4.--An Amalgamated man, and locked-out worker, who was one of the committee which went to Duquesne last evening to investigate the truth of the reported break returned this morning. To the correspondent he said: "There is no disguising the fact that the men there are all ready to go back. In fact the poorer paid are scrambling to get the positions of fifty or sixty men who will be the victims. The mill is not to start until Monday, but 600 applications have been made already. Last evening I saw six men who had joined the Amalgamated Association on Wednesday night, walk up, enter the mill yard and go to the company office and put down their names. I tried to argue with one, but he replied that he had to protect himself, and as others were flocking in he would not lose his job. This will be the third strike there in little over a year.

This morning twenty Homestead men walked to Duquesne to attempt to stem the tide. They were led by two Englishmen who have not been in this country long. Superintendent Potter returned to the mill this morning. He said that if the men had thought to cripple the operation of the mill in any way by the arrests, they were mistaken, for there was no interruption.

A Boycott Declared.

HOMESTEAD, PA., August 4.--The advisory committee gave out information to-night that Mrs. Nau and Miss Kate Peasley, two Homestead ladies, were prevented from leaving a train at City Farm by the militia and much indignation exists. At a late hour the following was received from South Bend: To the President of the Union, Homestead, Pa.

The Studebaker wagon works were obliged to shut down to-day, owing to 3,000 men refusing to work on account of the company's using material purchased of the Carnegie Steel Company. Great excitement prevails here. Other unions contemplate going out unless a boycott is made on all material made by the Carnegie company.

Arbitration Movement.

PITTSBURGH, PA., Aug. 4.--Regarding the movement to settle the iron workers' scale by arbitration, President Weihe, of the Amalgamated Association, said this afternoon that he could not yet state what the opinion of the working-men was. Said he: "There are lodges who must vote on the two propositions placed before them, and of course I could not tell anything about the result until the result until the reports are in. We have heard from about twenty-five of the lodges. Many of the lodges will not act on the propositions until the latter part of the week. Nothing further will be made public until after the conference."

Pinkertons Surrender.

PITTSBURGH, PA., August 4.--This evening Fred Primer, one of the Pinkertons charged by Ross with murder, surrendered himself to Alderman King and was committed to jail for a hearing for release on bail on Saturday. The other detectives, it is promised, will surrender before the close of the week. It is probable a special officer will be sent to arrest William and Robert Pinkerton.

Trackmen On a Strike.

HANNBAL, Mo., August 4.--Yesterday about 250 trackmen on the Wabash railroad, between Hannibal and Quincy, quit work. They have been paid $1.10 per day, and demand $1.25. It is thought the company will accede to the demands of the men and the strike will be of short duration.

Democratic Campaign Committee.

NEW YORK, August 4.--The campaign committee of the Democratic national campaign committee met this morning to organize. Don M. Dickinson was elected chairman.

Chairman Harrity, of the national committee, was authorized to appoint the necessary sub-committees and to employ assistants and a clerical force for headquarters. He immediately appointed George N. Parker, auditor, and William Duff Hayne, of South Dakota, superintendent of the information bureau.

The campaign committee decided that the resolution of the national committee contemplated the appointment of nine members of the campaign committee, exclusive of Chairman Harrity, so today Mr. Harrity added William C. Whitney to the committee. The advisory committee will not be appointed for several days.

Democratic Love Feast.

LOUISVILLE, KY., August 4.--This has been a great day and night for the Kentucky Democrats. The opening and dedication of the new Watterson club house drew together all the leaders of the party in the state. The governor and his staff came down from Frankfort. A but the chief feature of the occasion was the presence of the Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic nominee for vice president, who came at the invitation of the Watterson club and spoke both to a great concourse of people at Lederkrantz hall and to a similar gathering at the Watterson club house, where he was given a reception, and where Mr. Watterson, in spite of his recent illness of which he showed decided traces, also spoke. Speeches were also made by Hon. J. Proctor Knott, Hon. James A. McKensie, Hon. Boyd Winchester and Hon. Albert S. Willis and others.

Mackerel Plentiful.

ST. JOHN, N. B., August 4.--Mackerel were never so plentiful as they are at present. Just off the harbor American vessels are numerous. Twelve were about eight miles off the harbor yesterday afternoon using purse seines and all made hauls previously unheard of. Four were not more than two miles off the harbor. One got 300 barrels. Fishery Inspector O'Brien notified the Ottawa authorities yesterday afternoon.

Not a Good Point.

BENLIX, August 4.--No scientific observations of the planet Mars have been made either at the Royal observatory or at the observatory of the Urania as the practical astronomers at both institutions recognized that owing to the low-lying position of Mars Berlin is an unfavorable point of view.

Out $150,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., August 4.--There is a general belief that Wm. B. Robins, attorney and conveyancer of this city, and late accounting warden of St. Marks church is a fugitive, and it is alleged that the total sum of discrepancies in which he is involved will reach $150,000.

WIGGINS ON MARS.

He Thinks it is Inhabited--Disappointed with the Observations.

OTTAWA, Ont., August 4.--Dr. Wiggins, the weather prophet and astronomer, states that he was much surprised at the result of the investigation through the Lick telescope regarding the planet Mars. Such a result was certainly very disappointing to astronomers, as they had fully believed in the accuracy of Schiaparelli's investigations regarding the parallel canals on the face of the planet, but which the Lick telescope did not reveal in any shape.

Dr. Wiggins thinks Mars must be a more desirable world to live in than our own, because there is only a small region near the poles where any winter exists, and it has such a dense atmosphere that the temperature is not excessive at the equator.

"As it is many millions of years older than the earth," he said, "I judge that its inhabitants must be much more intelligent than we are, and probably live for hundreds of years. I would infer this from the fact that noxious vapors do not exist in its atmosphere to cause epidemics, for its volcanic agencies ceased many millions of years ago. As the attraction of the earth is now the greatest possible, our atmospheric density is slightly increased, which accounts for the great heat of the present summer. This will also increase the violence of Mount Etna's eruptions and we will have increased volcanic action and humidity throughout the world."

KOLB MAY CONTEST.

Later Returns Largely Increase His Vote in Alabama.

MONTGOMERY, ALA., August 4.--Kolb is making large claims and threatening a contest. No reports are official, as the count will not be made until Saturday. There is nothing, however, to change the report of Jones's election by a safe majority and a legislature in sympathy with him by over two-thirds majority.

A Birmingham dispatch says: Returns are in from all but six counties. As the remote white counties have been heard from Kolb's majorities have steadily increased, and Jones's majorities in large black counties are less than at first reported. This process has cut Jones both ways, and there is no doubt about his majority being about 10,000, probably less. Kolb has carried about 36 counties and only five of them having more than one member of legislature, so that of 100 members Jones will have 60. Many contests will be inaugurated when the count of the vote is made at the court house on Saturday.

P. G. Bowman, chairman of the Kolb-Jeffersonian Democratic executive committee has issued a circular to their partisans saying: "You are requested to meet at the court house of your county on next Saturday for the purpose of seeing that the votes cast at the election on August 1, 1892, are correctly and fairly counted. You will make note of all irregularities. Keep an account of all votes that were illegally cast and be prepared to have it. Circulate this among your friends and go to the court house in such numbers as to show that you are determined to preserve your rights. The indications now are that Kolb is elected governor and that the legislature will be composed of true men who will see justice done in the premises. And I urge you to do your duty from now on as you have done in the past, and not lose the fruits of your victory."

Oldest Ironworker Dead.

PITTSBURGH, PA., August 4.--William Reese, the oldest ironworker in the United States and one of the best known manufacturers here, died at his home at Bolivar, Pa., to-day, aged 104 years. Mr. Reese came to this country in 1832 and has been identified with the iron business ever since. His sons are widely known, one of them being Jacob Reese, the inventor.

We Are in It.

HUELVA, August 4.--The minister of marine gave a banquet to the foreign admirals and officers at the Hotel Columbus today. Queen Regent Christiana sent her congratulations on yesterday's naval display. The newspapers in describing the fete especially mention the United States vessels as adding to the brilliancy of the occasion by their electric and other illuminations.

Decided to Stand Firm.

DUQUESNE, PA., August 4.--This evening a larger meeting of the strikers was held and after adjournment the press committee gave out a statement that all the Amalgamated members who had agreed to return to work and many others had decided to stand firm and not go back.

Cholera in Paris.

PARIS, August 4.--A family of four persons died in the Rue St. Maur in this city to-day. It is said all died from cholera. Six other cases of cholera are reported to have occurred in this city. In the suburbs of St. Ouen and St. Denis the disease is spreading.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., August 4.--The delegates were tired from their hard night's work and were late assembling this morning. It was nearly 10:30 when enough had appeared to warrant Temporary Chairman Smith in calling for order. Rev. King again offered prayer.

A. B. White, of Wood, offered a resolution that speeches be limited to one nominating and one seconding speech for each candidate. Carried. It was further moved that speeches be limited to three minutes. Carried. The first business was nominations for treasurer and the roll call began.
